

Euskal Herria independentziazko bidean (18)

1. Eskozia ez da inolako eredu euskal herrirako

Eskoziaren afera jadanik ukitu dugu¹.

Azken bolada honetan berriro jorratu dugu kontua², ondokoa esanez:

Zarata asko eta berri on gutxi.

Irakurri dugunez³,

“...the Scottish Government agrees with the Commissions view that it makes sense to retain Sterling, in a currency union with the rest of the UK...”

Bill Mitchell-ek dioenez⁴ (baita DTM-koek ere),

“If Scotland chose to issue its own currency ... then it could, in theory, create an almost unlimited supply at virtually no cost.”

“If Scotland wants to be truly independent it has to have its own currency.”

Orduan eta soilik orduan:

“Then all the issues about what ratings the public debt would get from the bond markets and the rating agencies and all the rest of the nonsense would fade away into irrelevance.”

Orduan, zer dela eta aukeratuko dute Britainia Handiko libra esterlina?

Ezjakintasuna? Ukapena? Biak?

“Denial or ignorance – major changes are required within my profession before it starts to serve the people with sound advice that will advance their well-being.”

(Euskaraz, ikus link hauek⁵.)

Eskozia independentea ote Scotland's Future liburu zuriaren bidetik?

Ene ustez, Eskozia gaur egun ez da inolako eredia Euskal Herrirako.

Dixi et salvavi animam meam.

2. Eskoziak ausartago izan behar du

Zer dela eta Eskozia independente batek bere moneta⁶ behar duen, Edinburgh-eko Liburu Zuriaren aurka⁷.

Eskoziak bere moneta propioa sortu behar du. Gainera, zirkulazioan libra eskoziarra egonik, banatze monetarioa teknikoki errazagoa da⁸.

⁸ Ingelesez, "Scotland must bite the bullet and fearlessly seek to establish its own currency. The fact that - due to an historical accident - there already exist Scottish pounds in circulation makes a monetary de-coupling technically simpler."
